SUBJECT Spy Recruiting

CHARLES OSGOOD: Want to be a spy? Well, David Atlee Phillips has put together an unofficial book on intelligence jobs, with some of the possible questions and answers, for people who want to apply to the CIA.

Would you be hired if you've been on drugs? Well, Phillips says it depends on the narcotics and how frequently they're used. But you should be ready to give them up for your career.

And if hired by the CIA, could you really call it "The Company"? Yes, says Phillips. But then again, you might choose another name. Insiders, according to Phillips, often refer to the CIA as "The Pickle Factory."
